Why France was chosen by the Chinese companies?

France is the fifth largest economy in the world and houses nearly 40 of the world's 500 largest companies. In fact, the country holds the largest insurance company, airline holding company, cosmetic company, luxury companies, energy companies and more. These attributes make it one of the most attractive investment destinations in the world.

France is the fifth largest economy in the world and the second largest economy in Europe, which makes it a relatively safe place to put money. But as the European Union's sovereign debt crisis has shown, the country's monetary ties to others in the E.U. have created some key risks. Investors should take all of these benefits and risks into account before committing any capital.

Benefits of investing in France include:

- Developed Markets – France houses one of the largest economies in the world with a very developed securities market. In contrast to some emerging and frontier markets, this usually means less geopolitical risk and volatility.
- Large Companies – France has houses many of the world's largest companies, which usually adds to the lower volatility. Larger companies typically have lower volatility and more predictable long-term
- Investing in France can be accomplished using ETFs, ADRs or direct investment on France's stock exchanges. But it's important to remember that many of these ADRs trade on the OTC Markets Pink Sheets and may be relatively illiquid.
